PASSENGER ACCOMMODATIONS.

CABIN.

State Rooms are mostly on the main deck, the majority of the rooms having two berths, and a sofa, which may be used as a berth when necessary.

Rates of passage are fixed according to location of berth, all passengers having equal privileges in the saloon.

The Allan Line has always been well known for the excellence and liberality of its table, which is always provided with the delicacies of the season.

Wines and liquors of the finest qualities can be had on board at moderate prices

All the steamers carry an experienced surgeon.

SECOND CABIN.

This class of accommodation offers excellent opportunity to those desirous of making a trip in a most comfortable manner at an extremely small outlay.

Passengers are berthed in state-rooms generally accommodating four persons, and are furnished with a liberal supply of food well cooked and neatly served, beds, napery, and utensils are all furnished by the Steamer.

STEERAGE.

The Steerage, considering its cost, is remarkable for its comfort, the utmost regard having been paid to the light and ventilation of the Steamers. Male steerage passengers are berthed by themselves, women and children in adjoining compartments.

Steerage passengers are provided with the necessary outfit for the voyage, consisting of bedding and mess utensils free of charge. Food of the best quality carefully cooked is served by Stewards in unlimited quantity.

BICYCLES.

A charge of $2.50 each is made for these, and to ensure safety they must be crated.

BAGGAGE.

Cabin passengers are allowed 20 cubic feet
